It was because of the policy toward alien residents of the National Front and because of KAWAI's request for amnesty, that he was released. On 3 May 1962, the National Front organized a festival for KAWAI, at which he expressed his sincere thanks for the good treatment received from the soldiers of the Liberation Army.

KAWAI also denounced the "American imperialists" according to LNA, and said he was determined to go to Saigon and inform the Japanese of the true purpose of the National Front for the Liberation of South Vietnam and inform the people of the leniency and policy of the National Front toward alien residents.
